

Cow Palace Displays Prize Horses

By JANET REINKA

There ain't a Cockney among 'em.

English riding horses, they are, and the black ones with coats as sleek and black as a movie actor's hair. Bays stepping high through the mud like a lady protecting an evening dress.

Where the children of farmers slept four bunks to a horse stall last week during the first week of the Junior Grand National, these prized animals now bunk.

Down the rows where last week were slung jeans, robes and Western hats, this week are mementos of previous shows — festoons of red, blue, gold and green ribbons.

Even the names of these powerful hunters and jumpers have a prep school ring. Brandy Snifter and O'Henri, Witch of the West and Evening Out, Avon Lady and Autumn Flight. The horses — and their owners — whose ages range from five to 18 — came to the Daly City Cow Palace for judging in various events that started Thursday and continued through Saturday.

The whole competition will wind up with a show of Western horses today through Wednesday. The public is welcome to visit free between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. during any of the shows.

Ninety per cent of those involved in showing the horses are girls who grew up dreaming about owning their own Black Beauty. But as they tied their horses' tails and manes into tight braids, very few of them seemed nervous about taking their turn in the judging ring.

"I'm not nervous because I've done this so many times," said Lynne Lyons, 17, of San Mateo, as she petted her horse Expresso.

Expresso nuzzled her. "He knows me," she said. "He checks out my pockets for carrots. He's really an affectionate horse." Lynne enjoys working with animals so much that she plans to major in animal science in college.

Expresso's tail was braided and tied up with a cloth bandage to keep it groomed before the afternoon judging. "You see, Lynne's quite a tall girl," her trainer David Boley explained. "Tying the tail makes the horse appear taller, the legs longer."

And it's fine points like that that make the competition such a horse race. The riders are judged as carefully as the horses on how well they sit in the saddle, if their backs are straight, their heels down, their heads up. The horse should jump over the hurdles set up in the ring without hesitation or urging.

If a horse refuses to jump three times, he's out of the competition.

In case a horse loses a shoe before the show or in the ring, farrier Vern Smith of Palo Alto, who is hardly the image of the swarthy blacksmith, is on hand to re-shoe them.

It's an expensive proposition to shoe a horse — between $22 to $120 for a gaited horse every four to six weeks — but if it's not done properly, the horse can break a leg and have to be killed.

"It used to be that it was hard to shoe a horse," he said, as he examined the hoof of O'Henri, a horse owned by 12-year-old Lisa Toews of Redwood City. O'Henri stood for it without so much as swishing a tail.

"We'd sometimes have to throw them down and tie their feet up. Now they have it done so often they're used to it."

At the judges table the panel presided over a table of silver trays stacked with the coveted ribbons.

"No, the kids don't seem nervous," said Allen Ross, manager of the show. "It's the parents and the nurse who are most nervous."

Ross said a few of the equestrians had fallen off their horses, but none had been hurt. "They might be a little sore the next day," he said.

"O.K., that'll do it," he announced over the loudspeaker as a rider's horse knocked over another of the four-foot-high hurdles in the ring.

No matter. Blood is thicker than water, even if it's Chelsea blue, and the young rider probably will forgive her horse.

"He's like a big puppy," Lisa Toews said of hers.

"I just really love my horse. He's just loveable," said Lorie Lyons, 13. Her horse slurped her hand thankfully.

$20 Million Mount Bruno Suit Planned

Visitacion Associates, whose plan for development of the proposed Crocker Hills project on San Bruno Mountain was drastically cut by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, plans to file suit this week in Federal District Court seeking more than $20 million damages from the county.

Robert Follett, general manager of Visitacion Associates, announced today that the suit was being prepared after the Board of Supervisors voted final approval of its 3 to 2 action of March 18 approving a modified development plan which eliminates more than two-thirds of the project advocated by the developer.

The board actions would eliminate development on the 327-acre Saddle area along Guadalupe Canyon Parkway where Visitacion Associates had proposed to locate 5,420 of the 7,655 dwelling units proposed in the project.

Follett said that the suit his firm is filing will allege that the county's action has resulted in inverse condemnation of the developer's property through denial of development in the Saddle area.

Follett contended throughout public hearings on the development proposal that the Crocker Hills project would not be financially feasible without inclusion of the Saddle area.

In today's action, the vote of the board was 3 to 2 to affirm its action of last month. Board Chairman William H. Royer and Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, who favored the Visitacion plan, voted against the affirmation.

The board also voted in a separate action to urge the county's legislative representatives. State Parks Director Herbert Rhodes and State Resources Director Claire Dedrick to pursue legislation which would provide state funding for acquisition of park and open space on San Bruno Mountain.

Assemblyman Louis Papan should be asked to support the legislation which he has tried to deep-six so we can get on with acquisition of a park," commented Supervisor Jean Fassler. "We want any and all support for parks and open space in the San Bruno Mountain area."

Church's Permit Unrevoked

The Pillar of Fire Church in Pacifica will be able to retain its use permit for a school at 1030 Linda Mar Blvd.

For several months, the Planning Commission has threatened to revoke the permit for the school operated by Alma Heights Academy.

Commissioners have complained that the church staff has not completed landscaping provisions in the permit granted in 1971.

After granting several extensions and repeatedly discussing the problem with school instructor Joseph Gross, the commission scheduled the hearing to revoke the permit.

However, Parks and Recreation Director Ginny Jaquith told the commission Monday that the church school staff has finally completed all landscaping requirements and the problem is resolved. The commission decided not to revoke the permit.

In other business, the commission:

Continued until May 17 a hearing to consider revoking the use permit for Pacifica's cable television station operators, Telecommunications, Inc., at 1080 Palmetto Ave.

Denied a site development permit application by Karl Strutz for improvements to his property at 303 San Pedro Ave. before it is sold.

Approved a use permit application by Donald Carlson for a shop and garage at 724 Rockaway Beach Ave.

Postponed action on an application by Joseph Fitzpatrick for 104 apartment units below the minimum square footage required by city ordinance at the property bound by Hickey Boulevard, Gateway Drive, Imperial Drive and Firecrest Avenue. The commission will take action when environmental impact reports are submitted.

Citizens in Broadmoor Favor Police Tax Hike

By FRANK La PIERRE

An overwhelming number of Broadmoor property owners want to keep their police protection district badly enough that they would vote to have their police district taxes doubled next year.

This is the revelation made following a door-to-door canvass of some 1,500 homes in the Broadmoor, Sterling Park and Garden Village areas which started two weeks ago and ended Friday.

Unless property taxes are increased before June 1977, the Broadmoor Police District will cease to exist. Both time and money are running out for the state's last police district.

A group of Broadmoor residents and officials met with Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy last month in Broadmoor to discuss the financial plight of the village.

McCarthy was asked to push legislation that would hike the property tax rate from its present 75 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to $1.50. That amounts to about a $40 increase per home.

legislator he would not institute any such action unless there was a clear indication this was what the people of Broadmoor wanted — specifically, the property owners.

Police District officials drafted a petition and McCarthy agreed to its wording before the survey was conducted by 12 local residents.

Friday, the petition bearing 1,104 signatures supporting the measure, was turned back to McCarthy's office.

Of the total contacted, about 10 per cent did not support the action, according to Margaret Fleischer, secretary of the Broadmoor Property Owners Association and one of the persons involved in the survey.

"We were also unable to contact anyone at about 75 homes in our community. But we expect to get back to these homes if Assemblyman McCarthy wants us to," Mrs. Fleischer said.

If the legislation were passed, the police district board could call a special election to change the maximum amount of money available to the protection district. Those petitioned said they favored letting the electorate decide the matter.

Signing the petition did not commit residents to a tax hike, Mrs. Fleischer wanted it clearly understood.

Without the petition, McCarthy said he would not sponsor necessary legislation to amend the state's Health and Safety Code, which Broadmoor's Police District operates under.

Rehabilitation Committee Makeup Opposed in D.C.

There is opposition being voiced today in Daly City over the proposed makeup of the city's Residential Rehabilitation Committee.

This committee will be charged with advising the City Council on where, how and when to spend funds for upgrading homes, primarily in the eastern sectors of the city.

City Manager David Rowe has suggested that the city appoint either a banker or attorney to the new committee, in addition to a city staff member.

But the Rev. Hosea Spears and Julius Castell, both acting as spokesmen for various citizens groups, pushed for more "grass roots" representation on the committee rather than appointment of a banker or attorney who, they feel, might not be in touch with the needs of that of the segment of the community affected by the project.

Mayor Anthony Giammona said he thinks a banker is needed on the committee to help in loan preparation and other financial matters.

Giammona said the same is true of establishing lines of communication between city offices and on legal matters. This is why he thinks an attorney and city staff member should also be appointed.

"This (committee) is to be only an advisory body and will not make decisions regarding loans (to upgrade homes)," Giammona reminded those attending the study session Monday.

Castell argued that the more target area residents serve on the committee, "the more input there will be."

Spears predicted there would be "a great catastrophe" unless the council appoints people acceptable to the community.

"I would hate to oppose this (matter) openly," Spears warned the council.

Man Dies In Crash

A San Bruno man was killed almost instantly when he apparently lost control of the car he was driving near Dixon, Calif., April 18.

He was Raymond G. Morrell, 31, a self-employed tile setter.

The Solano County Highway Patrol said Morrell was driving east on Tremont Road at more than 70 miles an hour around 6 p.m.

The car struck a small ridge and flipped over four times, the CHP said. The third time, Morrell was thrown out, and the car rolled over him, according to police.

Two Armed Men Flee With $2,500

Two armed men held up the Winston Manor Market, 125 Hickey Blvd., South San Francisco about 7:15 a.m. Monday and fled with $2,500 from a safe after tying up the store's owner.

Police said the two men, wearing ski masks and armed with automatic pistols, forced their way into the store through a rooftop window sometime during the night.

After entering the market, the pair waited for the arrival of co-owner Gustavo Uriarte.

Uriarte was forced at gunpoint to open the store's safe and was tied up with electrical cord, police said.

Shortly after 8 a.m., Uriarte's partner, Albert Martin, came into the market and heard screams in the rear of the building.

He found Uriarte bound and lying on the floor, police said.

Det. Fred Carelli said the robbers sawed through steel bars covering a rooftop window over the women's restroom of the market.

The first steps of two projects which will upgrade sewage treatment in South San Francisco and other North County cities are underway.

Improved sludge treatment methods and sewer plant expansion will upgrade the South San Francisco plant to meet certain federal and state agency requirements.

Whether those improvements will result in a sewer rate increase for South San Franciscans has not yet been determined, according to Director of Public Services Frank Addiego. He said he thinks it probably will, however.

The City Council, he said, will have to determine if the financing is to come out of a bond issue or revenue from sewer service charges.

Both aspects of the sewer plant upgrading will include studies of potential revenue sources, Addiego added, but that problem won't come before the City Council until the studies are completed.

The sludge treatment project is being studied for possible alternatives to the current treatment system.

South San Francisco has received grants totalling $33,000 for the first stage and $38,000 will also come from San Bruno, Burlingame, Millbrae and San Francisco International Airport — all users of the plant.

The study will include solutions to a violation cited by the California Regional Water Quality Control Board in October.

The board ordered South San Francisco, San Bruno and Tillo Products Co. to "clean-up and abate" conditions causing pollution of Comma Creek.

Tillo has a contract with the two cities to blend sewage sludge with rice hulls and other materials to form a soil conditioner.

All three faced criminal or civil action if the pollution problem was not resolved.

Addiego said this study was planned before the board cited the pollution problem. The staff will study alternatives to existing sludge treatment — either with Tillo or by some other means.

"It needs streamlining, obviously," Addiego said.

The city's contract with Tillo expires in June, and the city and the firm are negotiating possible renewal of that contract. The city presently pays Tillo $300 a month for sludge treatment.

Addiego said that in view of the sludge study and a request by Tillo for a higher fee, he is not certain whether the contract will be renewed.

"We have a difference on what they should be getting," Addiego said.

The first phase of the sewage treatment plant expansion will involve a study of means to meet the latest National Pollution (See SEWERS, Page 2)

Another DC Appeal for Information on Slaying

The Daly City Police Department has issued another appeal for information regarding the knife slaying of Denise Lampe April 1 in the Serramonte Shopping Center.

Police say they are certain that with the number of shoppers who were in the area when Miss Lampe was killed, someone must have seen some sort of altercation between the young woman and her killer.

Such a situation may have appeared to be a simple domestic argument, they said.

If you saw such a situation between approximately 9:20 and 9:40 p.m. near a silver over blue 1965 Mustang parked on the west side of Macy's that night, the department requests that you call 992-4503.

The investigation is being actively pursued and new information would greatly aid in solving the murder, police said.

Paramedics

satisfy the training requirements of the proposed paramedic program.

The director of health and welfare suggested that proposals from public agencies and private ambulance services interested in providing paramedic transportation services would be received by David Thome, the county's emergency medical services administrator, no later than June 1, with agreements to become effective and emergency service, with the exception of paramedic-level capabilities, by Oct. 1.

The "back-bone" specialized communications equipment needed for paramedics should be installed and training completed a year later, according to Pickett's schedule.

The five service zones proposed by Pickett to provide the most effective paramedic-transportation service are:

- I — The area of Pacifica, Daly City, Colma, Brisbane and part of South San Francisco.
- II — The area consisting of part of South San Francisco, the cities of San Bruno, Millbrae and Burlingame and the north half of Hillsborough.
- III — The south half of Hillsborough, the cities of San Mateo, Foster City, Belmont and San Carlos and the Redwood Shores area of Redwood City.

- IV — Redwood City, Atherton, Menlo Park, Woodside, Portola Valley and East Palo Alto.
- V — The Coastside south of Pacifica and west of Skyline Boulevard and Junipero Serra Freeway.

Pickett estimated the annual cost of the paramedic system at $1,278,176.

He is proposing that an average charge of $125 for private pay patients receiving paramedic service would be reasonable and realistic when considered in the context of total health care costs.

Pickett said he believes the recommended fee is equitable and one which will not discourage patients from using the service when it is needed, or encourage patients to default in the payment of user fees.

The director added that, because of the rigid requirements of the implementation schedule, it is "necessary that your board's consideration of this report be completed as soon as possible."

Any lengthy delay, he said, would result in the postponement of the effectiveness of operations.

Pacifica Man Vows to Oppose Sewage Plan

A Pacifica resident who waged a successful battle against a sewage transfer station proposed in his neighborhood two years ago warned the Planning Commission Monday he'll protest the proposal now that it has come up again.

James Cuevas said the transfer station — a place where garbage is compacted and stored temporarily — still does not belong in the Sharp Park district of the city.

He told the commission that the city should be able to find another location for the station. If the commission — and ultimately the City Council — approve the proposed location, it will cost the city a lot of time and money to fight Sharp Park residents who are strongly opposed to the project, he said.

"We're prepared to fight again," Cuevas said.

Mario Torrigino, president of the Coastside Scavenger Co., is seeking a use permit for a transfer station next to the scavenger company at 2305 Palmetto Ave.

In 1973, Torrigino made the same request. Although the Planning Commission and council approved the permit, the state Coastal Commission turned it down on an appeal by Cuevas and other nearby residents.

Recently, however, the urgent need for a transfer station for Pacifica's garbage has developed.

Pacifica has been warned by the Daly City City Council that its contract to dump solid waste at the Daly City dump site at Mussel Rock probably won't be renewed.

After July 1, Pacifica may need another location to dump its waste. Without a transfer station, the scavenger company will have to haul truckloads of waste to the regional dumpsite at Ox Mountain east of Half Moon Bay.

The city staff has warned that such a dumping procedure would force the company to at least double its residential and commercial garbage rates.

The commission Monday night postponed action on Torrigino's application for three months.

Planning Technician Carol Whitmore recommended the postponement so that the staff can study the inconsistency between the city's General Plan and the zoning at the proposed transfer station site which was revealed at an April 5 meeting.

Sharp Park resident John Curtis protested that in the city's haste to get a transfer site, Torrigino is not being required to adhere to the legal format for approval of his project.

Curtis said the transfer site requires an amendment to the city's General Plan and that the scavenger company president ought to first seek that amendment from the council and the Coastal Commission.

"It begins to look like things are being done to help Mr. Torrigino to push it through," Curtis said. The applicant shouldn't receive special treatment, he said.

He also said that the procedure being followed is "piecemeal planning" and that the project should be considered in the total General Plan study.

The City Council is scheduled to study the General Plan including possible revisions tonight and the planning staff said the transfer site will be included.

Several other residents objected to the application citing the potential noise that garbage trucks at the site might make.

Resident Angela Saladino asked if alternative locations — including possible sites in Daly City — could be researched during the three-month study period.

She also said the application and the ensuing protest are a rehash of what occurred when the transfer station was proposed two years ago.

The Coastal Commission denied the project then, she said, because of the location. Unless a new location is found, the commission will deny the project on appeals again, she said.

The project will be evaluated by the commission after the council's General Plan study and revisions are completed.

Sewer

Discharge Emission Standards, Addiego said.

The city again has obtained $16,000 in State and federal money for the study, with the same cities contributing the remainder for a total of $23,504.

The expansion will require land acquisition. The city presently has its eye on land owned by Utah International, adjacent to the sewer plant. To purchase that property, the city plans to sell about 6½ acres of its own land adjacent to Airport Boulevard and just north of Belle Aire Road.

The staff is studying the possibility of obtaining an option to buy the Utah property.

On May 5, the staff is to ask the council to approve buying an option and obtaining appraisals of the property.

In both projects, Addiego said, future construction depends upon grants from federal and state agencies. Those agencies will not grant the money until the city reaches the construction stage. There are no guarantees in the meantime.

Manager Says Start Firing

It was a gloomy occasion when City Manager Don Weidner presented the Pacifica City Council the proposed 1976-77 $5.9 million budget.

Battling projected deficits of $153,638 by July, 1977, and $1,346,000 by July, 1978, the budget anticipates a 45.9 cent tax rate increase for Pacifica property owners.

At the same time, Weidner proposes eliminating 23 of Pacifica's 160 full-time employees as well as eight part-time school crossing guards, and 11 city vehicles, and making "drastic cutbacks in subsidies and dues to community and area-wide organizations."

Weidner laid it on the line. The budget will result in "severely reduced levels of service to the public."

"This is the price Pacifica will have to pay for international and national fiscal policies for which it is not responsible. The city simply was spending money far faster than it was taking it in and we have exhausted its resources," the city manager reported.

The reason for the projected budget deficits he said, are rampant nationwide inflation and extremely low revenue growth in Pacifica.

There is no money for more services or personnel, no matter what requests may be made by the community.

"Council will experience tremendous pressures from many groups for restoration of services and programs staff has proposed to reduce or eliminate," Weidner said.

"Council's only choice if it wishes different programs and services than staff proposes, is to further cut into current programs to make room for additional desired ones."

Weidner said that by cutting back on personnel and services, he was able to come up with a balanced budget this year, eliminating the threat of a deficit.

The 1977-78 projected deficit of more than $1.3 million is reduced to approximately $155,000.

"Staff is not particularly pleased to present this tentative fiscal document," he said. "It reflects a very disappointing reduction in levels of public service, programs and staffing."

The city attorney's office would maintain the existing level of services.

Weidner told the council that if it wants to make additional expenditures not in the proposed budget, certain priorities should be followed.

He suggested that they restore laid-off employees, restore previous services in community development, Parks, beaches, recreation, fire and police, and reduce tax rates.

The council will hold a weekend study session May 22 and 23 to go over the document.

Night Watchman Interrupts Theft

A night watchman interrupted an attempted safe burglary in the office of the Rod McLellan Company nursery, 1450 El Camino Real, South San Francisco.

The watchman, Miguel Bowen of San Francisco, told Sheriff's Det. Sgt. Paul Giguere that he was passing the business office at about 2 a.m. Monday when he noticed two men in the office, one with a ski mask over his face and holding a welding torch, and the second kneeling with what appeared to be a walkie-talkie.

"Hey, what are you doing in there?" Bowen shouted.

The second man jumped up and ran out the door, chasing Bowen a short distance and stopping him at the nearby cottage where another watchman, Milton Nitsche, resides.

Bowen said the second man, who pulled a ski mask over his face, trained an automatic pistol on him and ordered him to summon the other watchman.

When Nitsche appeared at the door, Bowen ran off, and the burglar ordered Nitsche to accompany him to the office, where the watchman was directed to lie on the floor.

Both men then disappeared, giving up the attempt to open the safe, Nitsche said.

Money Is Available For Home Insulation

The San Mateo County Economic Opportunity Commission has received a grant from the Federal Community Service Administration and the Department of Commerce to insulate and winterize approximately 150 homes in San Mateo County.

Applicants who qualify as low-income will receive both materials and labor free. Borderline low-income cases may be eligible to receive free the labor involved, but could be required to pay the cost of the materials used.

This program includes the installation of 6" fiberglass insulation rated R-19.

weatherstripping; window repair and counsel on these items, which the county says can result in energy savings and reduce utility bills.

All work will be done by qualified workers who were fully trained by Pacific Coast Insulation Co., a local insulation contractor.

For further information, contact Jorge Hassmer, Program Coordinator, 621 Middlefield Road, Redwood City 94063.

Applicants can pick up an application at any county library, local information center, fire station, PG&E Office, or your local building department.

Catholic Daughters Schedule Dinner

Court St. Mary No. 1155, Catholic Daughters of America, will host an International Dinner April 29 at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Hall, 80 Wellington Ave., Daly City.

No host cocktails will be served at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. Dinner will be prepared and served by Mr. Pol Nepomuceno, a retired chef.

In line with the theme of the evening — "International Goodwill" — guests are asked to wear national costumes or colorful attire. For reservations, contact Esther Pagan or Mrs. Rosario Nepomuceno.

All proceeds of this event will benefit the court's charity fund.

Proposed State Office Development Permit Decision Delay

A violation of negative declaration filing requirements has been sidestepped by the South San Francisco City Council and staff.

City Atty. John Noonan has found a way to avoid having to send the use permit application by the state Department of Economic Development (DED) to the commission to start the process all over.

Noonan said the city may file the negative declaration — a document exempting the proposed development from environmental impact reports — with the county clerk for a 30-day review period and then proceed with the project.

The slight delay in the project as a result, Noonan said, won't cause a problem for the DED.

The council was told April 7 by a former assistant city planner, Surendra Amin, that the city planner had failed to file the negative declaration 10 days in advance of the Planning Commission public hearing on the use permit, as required by law.

City Planner David Hale said he had filed the report on Friday, Nov. 14, but it was not checked in until Monday. Since the hearing was on Nov. 25, he was one day short of the 10-day requirement.

Noonan said the 10-day filing period is intended as an opportunity for the public to inspect the document and challenge its determination.

By filing that same document with the county clerk for a 30-day review period, the problem is legally solved, he said.

The former employee said only that the city ought to follow its city ordinances in the future.

The DED has proposed moving its present unemployment office on Miller Avenue to a location on South Spruce Avenue at the Myrtle Avenue extension site.

The council, however, decided to postpone any decision on the permit until nearby residents have an opportunity to comment on the project, particularly on the traffic that could be generated.

Councilman William Borba said parking for the building will be inadequate and is "going to cause some problems."

The DED has said it will provide 47 off-street parking stalls — more than double that required by city ordinance.

Hale said the council could decide if the project is adverse to the neighborhood and deny it.

He also noted that state buildings do not provide off-street parking spaces for employees. The DED expects 28 employees in the beginning and as many as 40 later.

Based on the number of clients who now use the Miller Avenue office, the DED expects 30 customer cars would be on the site at any one time.

The planner recommended approval of the project.

The council decided to wait until May 5 to receive public comment and act on the project.

The action came as the board considered comments recommended by County Manager M.D. Tarsches to the fire protection report made by LAFCO last fall.

One of the main points in the LAFCO report concerns the situations wherein municipalities or fire districts are providing fire protection services to unincorporated urban pockets without reimbursement. Tarsches noted.

He said his response is generally that a service area or similar tax could be the vehicle to cover additional fire protection costs.

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald said such areas are taking advantage of services without paying their share of the load.

Samuel Chandler

I did it. After being told by a score of college kids that I should read "Something Happened" by Joseph Heller, I read it.

"Something Happened" is a bellyache and soretoe novel that should be read by the "best possible world crowd."

Not only does it deal with the bellyaches and soretoes of the American man of the 1970's, it throws in his headaches and nervous disorders as well. It goes into his garbage can and pulls out his ambitions, lusts, greed, hates and fears and with them paints a picture that makes you queasy.

When you read "Something Happened" something will happen to you. As you grow sick and turn green, you will find yourself asking if Americans have become as profane and adulterous as Heller pictures them.

You will find yourself like the Psalmist screaming, "wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity . . . Purge me with hyssop . . . hide my face from my sins."

WHILE MANY characters move through "Something Happened," it is the story of Slocum, who move from one conflict to another. In the office, at home, with his wife, his children, his secretary, his boss, his whore . . . Slocum experiences one catastrophe after another.

His world is made to appear inescapable and uncontrollable and very much like the world that swirls around the life and times of the 20th century American.

But in the sequence of events, we are shown that Slocum is responsible for the tone of his life. He is the center of his universe, and while he does not know it, he is capable of setting it straight.

Slocum is guilty of complacency. His sin lies in his tacit acceptance of the system that demeans mankind. He makes feeble protests against the bureaucracy; he frets over the hypocrisy that he sees then he washes down his words with another drink. Too late in his life he learns that the individual, not the establishment, holds the final trump.

Joseph Heller, with his novels, "Something Happened," and "Catch 22," is widely read by college age people. They, like Heller's characters, are aware that they live in a world that hovers between hilarity and horror. They feel that Americans are caught in a weird, flat, impersonal age of merciless machines.

Yet, like Slocum, they do not reach out to escape the imprisonment they hate so much.

Indeed they have formed their own tautology and seem unaware that they are going to stick in its quagmire just as their fathers were stuck in that which held them.

While forsaking the institutions that received Slocum's and Kagle's lip service, too many of Heller's young readers supply nothing to replace them.

THEY REJECT the social apparatus they have inherited, but fail to replace it with anything of former substance.

'Brownie Revel' Signups Being Taken

Brownie Revel, the yearly "big event" of the Brownie Girl Scout calendar is set for May 8 with troop signups being accepted now by Caroline Futrell, Daly City Special Events Chairwoman. Only those troops who have arranged reservations will be accepted.

A "Brownie Revel" is a traditional Girl Scout event for the youngest Scouts and provides girls of all age levels an opportunity for fellowship.

This year Daly City Senior Panorama Troop No. 24 will arrange the program, which traditionally includes songs, games, cookout and camping skill competitions.

The event is scheduled for Junipero Serra Park in San Bruno from 9:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

The Brownie Revel is also a traditional time for Cadette (junior high age level) Scouts to begin their years of service as aides to troops of younger girls.

Scout America '76 began with an impressive opening ceremony distinguished by the presentation of an American flag which had flown over the capitol in Washington, D.C., and a California State flag which had flown over the capitol in Sacramento.

An opening flag ceremony began at 10:30 a.m. at Merwyn's Serramonte Mall entrance with more than 150 Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts carrying the flags of the nations which are members of the International Association of Girl Scout and Girl Scouts.

After the opening pledge of allegiance at 11:00 a.m. on the stage of the center fountain at the Serramonte Shopping Center, the girls gathered around the fountain to repeat the Girl Scout promise.

Alvin L. Schwarzbach, Scout America '76 general chairman, opened the ceremonies by introducing Richard Silver, administrative assistant to the Honorable Louis J. Papan, state Assemblyman from Northern San Mateo County, who presented a state flag to Junior Girl Scout Adrienne Citron of Tri-City Association Troop 123.

The Honorable Leo J. Ryan, U.S. House of Representatives member from Northern San Mateo County presented a national flag which had flown over the Washington, D.C. capitol to Deesi Schunk of San Francisco's Brownie Troop No. 44, accepting for the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council, the sponsor of Scout America '76.

Award information for leaders is now being accepted by Mrs. Roz Morino, Daly City Girl Scout Association Awards Committee member, for adults wishing special awards for their Scouting friends are cordially invited to submit the names and levels of achievement to Mrs. Morino, 992-4327.

Awards will be presented at Daly City's annual Girl Scout Awards luncheon on May 20th.

Scoutlook deadline is Wednesday, April 21st. All copy should be submitted to Daly City's temporary editor, Mrs. Roz Morino, by that date. Beginning with the fall 1976 issue, Daly City's Scoutlook editor will be Mrs. Lynn Hughes.

Mayors Pick Transit Rep.

Pacifica City Councilman Mark E. Savage has been named to the board of directors of the San Mateo County Transit District.

Savage, 43, who was elected to the city council last month, will succeed Aubrey M. Lumley on the transit board. Lumley was defeated for re-election to the council in the March election.

By JANET PARKER

A Pacifica couple claims the city is discriminatory in its enforcement of a policy on picket fences.

Dennis and Jenny Wong, 358 Bancroft Way, are fighting a city building inspector's order that the sharp points on their 3-foot-high, white picket fence be filed down or that the fence be removed.

City Construction Inspector Don Aquino notified the Wongs Dec. 11 that their newly constructed fence violates city policies and is dangerous to the safety of passersby.

Mrs. Wong, however, said the policy is an unwritten one, appearing nowhere in the city's ordinances. She said there are many fences in Pacifica which violate the city's pointed picket fence policy and the city does nothing to assure there is equal treatment of all property owners with fences.

"Our position is that we do not mind grinding off the points," Mrs. Wong said. "But the city can't say that just a few people have to comply with it."

Mrs. Wong has a stack of pictures of fences throughout the city that she believes violate not only the unwritten pointed picket policy but a city ordinance about fence height as well. It says that fences in front of houses cannot be more than three feet high.

After the Wongs were told in December — just after their fence was completed — that they needed an encroachment permit for a fence on the city's right-of-way, they filed for a permit.

Bob Kawasaki, assistant civil engineer, approved the permit, provided the fence points were cut to a minimum.

The Wongs discussed the safety factor with Kawasaki. Not satisfied that the policy was equally administered, they questioned Director of Community Services Les Clark.

Clark explained that the pointed pickets would prevent them from obtaining an encroachment permit. No permit, no fence, he explained.

He also told them that without a permit they would be in violation of the Municipal Code. Such a misdemeanor is punishable by not more than a $500 fine or imprisonment in the county jail for no more than six months, or both.

Clark said city policy prevents him from telling the Wongs about any complaints that may have been filed concerning their fence.

The Wongs still weren't satisfied. Through their lawyer, Charles Gretsche of San Francisco, they contacted City Atty. Gloria Scheid.

"The city's position is that picket fences adjacent to a public sidewalk can be extremely dangerous if someone were to fall on very sharp pickets," Mrs. Scheid told them. "The city has established a policy that only rounded pickets will be permitted so that injuries would be minimized."

The Wongs, she said, were not singled out. The requirement has been applied to other residents with fences.

Engineer Kawasaki said the city does not make any special effort to inspect fences. Whatever violations are seen when inspectors are on regular patrol are cited.

"We try to enforce it unilaterally throughout the city," Kawasaki said.

Some of the fences the Wongs have photos of, he said, could have been constructed before the city policy was adopted about three years ago. Those fences cannot be cited, he said.

The Wongs' fence is on city property. Fences on private property are exempt.

Mrs. Wong, however, said the enforcement policy is inadequate. She questioned whether an inspector will cite his neighbor or a friend for a fence violation. The procedure to cite violations should be for everyone or no one, she said.

Four months after their fence was to have been filed or removed, it still is standing. The Wongs intend to find out if the city policy is being equally enforced.

"If it's fair for one, it's fair for all," Mrs. Wong said.

If that looks like a smile on the face of 108-pound Suffolk lamb "Cowboy," it wouldn't be too surprising. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Saroff of South San Francisco bought the Grand Champion Lamb at the Junior Grand National Livestock Exposition last week and donated Cowboy to the San Francisco Lighthouse for the Blind to roam at the Lighthouse's Enchanted Hills summer camp in Napa County. Also pictured is the 1967 Junior Grand National Queen, Karen Steel of Atwater, and Tanya Rupe, of Penn Valley. She raised Cowboy.

Small Fire Stops Growing Gas Leak

A potentially serious situation short-circuited itself Thursday when a gas leak in a Daly City apartment building ignited well before the whole building had time to become filled with gas.

Battalion Chief Melvin Hansen said if a fire that was reported around 3:45 p.m. at 77 Lausanne St. had not ignited early, the gas could have seeped throughout the four-unit building and damage could have been much worse. As it was, only about $600 damage was done.

No one was home when neighbors saw smoke coming from under an overhang in front of the building and called firemen. On arrival, firemen found that the fire was confined to the space between the entrance to the building and the garage door. Hansen said.

Hansen said gas was leaking from a pipe and had filled the crevices between the stucco and the sheetrock. Firemen opened the doors of the building and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. servicemen repaired the leak.

The building reportedly is owned by Hanford Freund of San Francisco.

County Plans to Seek Youth Hostel Site

San Mateo County will seek another 10-acre portion of the Milagra Ridge Military Reservation between Pacifica and San Bruno as a prospective location of a youth hostel.

When the Board of Supervisors submitted an application for transfer of 238 acres of the property to the county for park and recreation purposes last year, it was proposed that the additional 10-acre launcher site be acquired by the San Mateo Community College District for use by Skyline Community College.

However, the district has since withdrawn its application, and the General Services Administration plans to sell the property by sealed bid unless a public agency use can be found for the site. County Director of Parks and Recreation John T. Brook explained to the board.

He said American Youth Hostels is interested in developing a hostel on the launcher site. However, the AYH cannot be recipients of a gift of land. Brook stated. The gift must be accepted by the county, and the AYH granted use by permit.

After hearing Brook's report, the board voted to apply for acquisition of the 10-acre site and agreed to pay $1,000 to reimburse the General Services Administration for one-half the protection and maintenance costs during the four-month period it is estimated will be necessary to complete the transaction.

County Adds to Bike Lane

A county contribution of $3,000 to the City of Brisbane for the construction of a bicycle lane adjacent to Bayshore Boulevard throughout the city limits was approved last week by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

The county's 50 per cent matching funding will come from the $100,000 bicycle path and lane fund established by the board to provide aid to cities with worthwhile bikeways projects of county-wide significance.

Pay Raises for San Mateo County Administrators

San Mateo County Manager M.D. Tarshes is now receiving a salary of $52,970 a year.

Salary increases of 7.5 per cent for Tarshes and 161 other county administrative officers and management personnel were authorized last week by the Board of Supervisors. The increases are retroactive to Jan. 1.

Unlike the majority of county employee groups who received 7 per cent increases on two-year contracts calling for three cost-of-living increments, the agreement with administration and management personnel is for a one-year period.

After approving the salary hikes, the board approved a motion by Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald that the board submit a proposed county charter amendment which would determine administrative and management salary increases on the basis of performance and ability.

The county charter presently provides that salaries be pegged on comparability with salaries for similar positions in other Bay Area counties.

Supervisor John M. Ward said he would like to see development of a management compensation plan which could be put into effect before next year.

Tarshes said that he believes including in the salary plan a "recognition of performance" is an "excellent idea," but probably would require a charter amendment because of present restrictions.

In making his motion Fitzgerald said that at present "our hands are tied we have to award on the basis of comparability."

County Director of Health and Welfare Dr. George Pickett continues as the county's second highest paid administrative official, with a new salary of $50,198 a year.

The new annual salaries for the county's elective administrative officials:

District Atty. Keith C. Sorenson, $44,512; Assessor Jack Estes and Sheriff John R. McDonald Jr., $38,771; Controller E. J.

McGuire Jr., $37,655; Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church and Tax Collector-Treasurer Ross Conti, $35,609; Coroner Paul B. Jensen, $30,992.

Top salaries for other selected administrative positions:

Superintendents of the Health and Mental Health divisions and assistant to the director of the Department of Health and Welfare, $44,512.

County engineer and county director of building construction and general services, $42,140. Chief deputy district attorney, chief probation officer, superintendent of social services, assistant county manager, $38,771.

County personnel director, planning director, director of parks and recreation, $34,465; Chope Community Hospital administrator, $34,798.

Superintendent, Business Division, Department of Health and Welfare, $33,722; administrator, Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center, $33,737.

Assistant sheriff, $32,198; executive officer, Superior Court, $30,992; county librarian, $30,721.

Study of Harbor Is Set Aside

A small craft harbor feasibility study — for which the Pacifica City Council sought Congressional assistance in 1974 — has been scratched.

The council voted 3-2 last week not to pursue the study at this time, although Congressman Leo Ryan, D-San Mateo County, already has obtained agreement with the Army Corps of Engineers to conduct the Coastside study.

Councilmen Stan Farber and Mark Savage voted against abandoning the study.

The Army Corps of Engineers would have studied the entire Pacifica coastline to determine if, and where, a small craft harbor could be constructed.

The engineers held a hearing in Pacifica March 25 to determine the current community interest in the project since the council sought a study more than two years ago.

At that hearing, the council learned its share of any harbor construction would be approximately $3 million — half of the total cost.

City Manager Don Weidner has said financial help could come from the San Mateo County Harbor District.

No specific financial arrangement has been established at this time, although Weidner said application could be made to the State Department of Navigation and Ocean

107 Things, Ideas to Do In Pamphlet

Bored?
No plans for the weekend?
Don't want to drive too far out of the county?
Try a few of the 107 suggestions for delightful tours of San Mateo County and nearby places, prepared in brochure form by John G. Steen, executive director of the San Mateo County Convention & Visitors Bureau.

(The office is located at 888 Airport Blvd. in Burlingame.)
There's something for everyone—from fish, ecology and orchids to outer space—within a radius of 75 miles at the most, according to a rough calculation.

Redwood City has its Marine Ecological Institute at 811 Harbor Blvd. with tours aboard an 85-foot research vessel. It introduces the visitor to the delicate ecology of San Francisco Bay.

Teams of instructors explain marine life, currents, waves, impact of pollution and other problems. Details may be obtained by writing.

The brochure is of particular value to the tourist and convention visitor. But it will also hold interest for local residents and relative newcomers who may not be aware of the advantages, special places of interest, education, amusement and cultural dimension of the county.

Acres of Orchids, the Rod McLellan Company's world-famed greenhouses at 1450 El Camino Real in South San Francisco, offers endless hours of fascination to those who love beauty and growing things.

In Woodside there is Woodside Vineyards, located 14 miles west of the Woodside Town Center on King's Mountain Road. Tours are arranged Saturday and Sunday by appointment.

Neighboring Santa Clara County offers the Ames Research Center, sponsored by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), that has spurred man's exploration of space.

In Half Moon Bay, the Spanishtown Historical Society's uncondemned walking tour of historic sites is a treat. Tour guidesheets are available at Cunha's Grocery, located at Main Street and Kelley Avenue.

Harbor tours are also available out of Half Moon Bay Harbor, offering a 45-minute scenic tour of Pillar Point and the surrounding area.

The visitor's tour guide covers the entire Bay Area, and few interests are missed.

In Bodega there's Charlene's Yesterday's Museum, P. O. Box 1, Bodega Highway, offering "nostalgia at its best" housed in a century-old Victorian mansion.

Crowing For Her Rooster

A Pacifica woman has something to crow about — her pet rooster.

Jackie Collum, who lives on Hillside Drive, says she wants to keep her pet but the city's Animal Advisory Commission has told her it must go.

The city's animal control ordinance states that "the keeping of chicken roosters over three months of age shall be prohibited in any residentially zoned district."

Monday night, Mrs. Collum asked the City Council if she could appeal the commission's decision ordering her to give up her rooster.

She said she wanted the ordinance amended so that she and other residents could keep their pet roosters if they don't disturb neighbors.

The council agreed to consider Mrs. Collum's rooster at a future meeting.

In the meantime, Mayor Janice Fulford said the city staff "is to understand your rooster is not to be disturbed... and it's not to disturb anyone else."

"I thank you and my rooster thanks you," Mrs. Collum said.

City Manager Don Weidner called it a "stay of execution" for the rooster.

Not everyone, however, took the rooster problem in a light vein.

A resident, Andy Kent, said the city ought to regard its ordinances as more than just so much hen scratch.

"You pass ordinances and then you don't enforce them. We have this all over the city of Pacifica," he said.

SM Board Raps Killer's Release

A letter protesting the release of wife killer Dr. Geza De Kaplany from state prison and asking for a policy statement on the release of prisoners has been directed to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

The move was instigated by Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald who expressed his concern that De Kaplany was released after serving seven years for the acid slaying of his bride in San Jose.

"We are spending millions of dollars at a local level, attempting to apprehend criminals, and yet it seems we have a parole system that is attempting to get prisoners out of the jails as fast as possible," Fitzgerald said.

"We are losing the battle on crime," he asserted. "We have had many murders committed in our community by people who were already known to law enforcement officers."

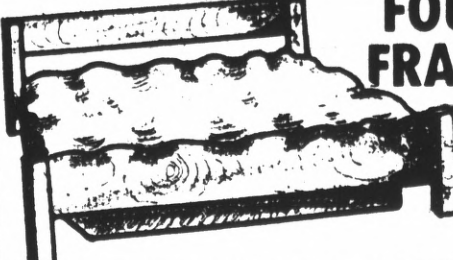

The action of the State Parole Board in releasing Dr. De Kaplany has shaken the faith of citizens I've talked to. Most of them state it is absolutely incredible that this could happen."

Board Chairman William H. Royer said he considered the situation a "question of the law versus administration," and suggested that it is a matter for the legislature to straighten out.

In authorizing the letter to the governor, the board asked the administrative staff to review any pending legislation concerning the parole system and submit a report to supervisors.

Study

Development to cover Pacifica's share of the project.

The council was slightly reluctant to turn its back on the Army Corps of Engineers.

Weidner pointed out that this is the third project the engineers have studied for the city in recent years.

The previous two — a protective seawall and the Pedro Valley flood plain study — were not pursued by the council because it lacked funds.

Colonel H. A. Flertshorn, Army Corps district engineer, wanted a serious commitment from the council before proceeding this time.

Weidner recommended that the council indicate a strong commitment and intent to put together a financing program for the harbor.

Councilman Stan Farber said he doubted if Dept. of Navigation or any other agency would provide funding in which the city didn't have to come up with a matching amount.

"We are going to cross Colonel Flertshorn once too often and the Army Corps of Engineers is not going to do anything for us again," Farber said.

Mayor Janice Fulford pointed out the advance environmental effects of such a harbor.

Councilman Nick Gust said the harbor "is a dream we would all like to see materialize in our community." But funds just don't exist. He said the city ought to seek a boat launching facility instead, since there is none from San Francisco to Princeton.

"This is where I'd like to see us put all our efforts," Gust said.

The engineers, Mrs. Fulford said, are not in the boat launching business. The project couldn't be substituted for a small-boat harbor.

Both Savage and Farber, however, said the city shouldn't close the door entirely on a smallcraft harbor.

"At this point, I'm not in favor of a harbor, but I want to exercise an option until all the facts are in," Savage said.

As a result of council action, the staff will inform the engineers that Pacifica isn't interested at this time and the study will not be conducted.

Mothers Of Twins To Meet

Coastside Mothers of Twins Club will hold their regular monthly meeting April 21 in the San Bruno Public Library Conference Room.

The meeting, beginning at 8 p.m., will include election of club officers for 1976-1977. The chapter will be celebrating its ninth anniversary this month with a birthday party following the general business meeting.

Founded in 1967, this club brings together parents and legal guardians of multiple birth children in order to exchange ideas, problems and twin equipment.

It also provides educational benefits concerning children and contribute to various philanthropic projects.

This local chapter is a member of the National Organization of Mothers of Twins Clubs which currently represents over 8000 members of 229 clubs in 43 various states.

All mothers and prospective mothers of multiple birth children are invited to attend the April meeting. For further information, contact Mrs. Jerry Schreier of San Mateo.

Le Pacini

We're getting bored with the local pundits who continually harp on Horace Stoneham's trading away of "super-stars" as if that was significant in the Giants' downfall under Stoneham's regime. Horace made his share of mistakes, but the superstar giveaways weren't among them.

The Giants had only three genuine superstars: Willie Mays, Juan Marichal and Willie McCovey.

When the team got rid of them, Mays and Marichal — as they proved with their other clubs — were washed up, while McCovey was over the hill, certainly no longer an everyday player.

Additionally, the Giants got their leading pitcher in 1974 — Mike Caldwell — out of the McCovey deal with San Diego.

We agree that the Giants shouldn't have gotten rid of such as Bobby Bonds, Dave Kingman and Gary Maddox simply because management couldn't get along with them personally, but they weren't superstars, and in Bobby Murcer, the Giants got the best of the Bonds deal. They procured a fine baseball PLAYER (as opposed to baseball ATHLETE) and a leader.

As for Gaylord Perry, he was a very good pitcher, but not a superstar, at least not in the Marichal mold, and his deal for Sam McDowell looked good on paper, because McDowell was younger, because he was left-handed, which is what the Giants needed in those days when the Dodgers were the league and the Giants' nemesis but had a weakness against southpaws, and because Perry had come off one of his weaker seasons.

Also, Perry had gotten to be a clubhouse lawyer and was causing some bad vibes among the younger, promising players.

And one last thing to remember — if this Giants' team does anything significant this year, it is Horace Stoneham's team. Almost all of them were signed under Stoneham's regime.

Now, if you really want to talk about bad trading, look to Houston, which has traded off such as Jerry Reuss, Dave Giusti, Joe Morgan, Jimmy Wynn, Cesar Geronimo, John Mayberry, et al, for relatively nothing in return. And also keep your finger crossed, because the man who turned that quality out of the Astrodome is now a sort of Giant co-General Manager — Spec Richardson.

That short spring training was supposed to work most against pitchers, yet we noticed that on opening day (for most teams) there were three shutouts and two one-run games among the eight played, and only five home runs hit. And the Giants had two of them.

LOCAL NOTES: Eddie Montague Jr., son of the man who signed Willie Mays and a long-time Daly City resident (the played baseball for Westmoor), is now a National League ump. Montague, 27, started in 1972 in the California League, put in the next three seasons with the PCL, and has now made the big jump.

Bob McClure, the former Terra Nova southpaw whiz, recently made "Sports Illustrated," being named as one of the bright young prospects this season. McClure is Kansas City's top left-handed relief pitcher.

We finally have an ally, and from an unexpected source. We've been saying, ever since that controversial "obstruction" play in the World Series, that Boston didn't deserve the call, anyway, because catcher Carlton Fisk made a bad throw to second base, even though he was on balance when he threw it.

Fisk's father, Cecil, recently said, "I think if he had made a good throw on that bunt, there wouldn't be such a big fuss about it."

Some unusual, interesting Warrior stats, utilizing the Pacini Method of extrapolating statistics into increments of 48 minutes, or full games:

Even though rookie Bubbles Hawkins plays mostly "garbage time," one must be impressed with the following: 37 points per game, a shooting percentage of 51.0, 9.4 rebounds, 5 assists, 3.1 steals, 2.5 blocked shots.

Also interesting: Charles Dudley, the little guard, is averaging 8.9 rebounds per 48 minutes; Keith Wilkes, the slender forward, 12.7 rebounds, and Clifford Ray and George Johnson, combined, go at 17.1 rebounds a game, as well as 3.1 blocked shots.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar is the top individual rebounder, with a 16.9 average. Johnson, playing less than half the time, is fourth in the league in blocked shots. That breaks down to 4.8 blocked shots per full game.

Phil Smith averaged more points per full game than Rick Barry, 28.2 to 26.2.

And if you ever doubted the value of the Warrior bench (which really isn't a "bench" in the normally accepted way, but merely the players who don't start), it averages about one-third of the Warriors' total points.

A strange thing happened on the way to the Sporting News NBA All Pro team. Barry drew more votes (125) than any other player, with Jabbar being closest with 97 points, yet Jabbar easily outpointed Barry in separate MVP voting.

But at least Phil Smith made one of the guard spots, along with Nate Archibald, beating out such as Earl Monroe, Dave Bing and Randy Smith, all of whom were second string on the mythical squad.

Smith is the only second-year man on either the first or second string squads. Barry is the oldest on the first team, at 32 being as old as Bing, who is the senior on the second team.

Barry's front court mate is George McGinnis, while Bob McAdoo, surprisingly, not only made just the second team squad, but made it as a forward, teaming with Elvin Hayes. Dave Cowens is the second team pivot.

Rookie of the Year is Phoenix center Alvin Adams. The Warriors' Gus Williams came closest to Adams, but at that got only half the votes.

In what may be a record for San Francisco State, two of their 1975 players were picked up in the NFL draft. Defensive back Robert Sparks went to Minnesota on the 12th round, while kicking specialist Rick Faulk (who we called one of the country's top kicking prospects several months ago), went to the Jets in the 15th.

TRIVIA OF THE WEEK: Remember the top six men on the Oakland ABA team that won that league's title in 1968-69?

Why, Rick Barry, of course, as well as Larry Brown, Doug Moe, Jim Eakins, Gary Bradds and Warren Armstrong (now Warren Jabali). It was coached by Alex Hannum.

Branch Rickey ran the 1948 FOOTBALL Dodgers. Average salaries for professional athletes: NBA, $110,000; ABA, $95,000; NHL, $75,000; WHL, $60,000; big league baseball, $48,000; NFL, $42,000.

Jim Jeffries, the great old heavyweight champ, fought 12 of his 23 fights in San Francisco — eight of his first 11, and four of his last five.

Yet he is never spoken of as a San Francisco fighter, even though he fought a much greater percentage of his fights in San Francisco than did Gentleman Jim Corbett, a native San Franciscan who is known as a San Francisco fighter. Jeffries was born in Ohio.

SUDDEN THOUGHT: Isn't it lucky that Tyrus Raymond Cobb chose to use his first name — which a lot of young players wouldn't have, with a name like Tyrus — rather than his middle name? Would "Ray Cobb" have ignited the imagination as did Ty Cobb?

TAG END: Had Boston and Washington, the two NBA teams closest to the Warriors in winning percentage and champs in their own divisions, been in the Pacific Division, Boston would have finished five games behind the Warriors, Washington 10 games behind.

OLPH Defeats Saints In Girls Volleyball

In the Daly City girls volleyball league game sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, OLPH came back to defeat St. Thomas More Saints two games to one.

Eileen Butler led St. Thomas More in their victory by serving a total of seven points. OLPH came back with the fine play of Tanya Vance and Sue Balahon to win the last two games.

Holy Angels Are League's Champs

The Holy Angels 7th grade girls basketball team concluded a 15-game winning streak when they met South County champions, St. Pius from Redwood City, April 10 in Burlingame and became county champions.

The girls gave a fine demonstration of "basket weaving" as they maneuvered the ball from player to player down the court, winning 33 to 20.

The team started playing together last year and lost only their first game. Their coaches are Jim McCarthy and Chris Siglie.

Starting in the fall of 1975, they won the Daly City Fall League, the Daly City Invitational Basketball Tournament, and continued to improve in San Mateo Northern Parochial Schools League.

In their last six games, the girls have averaged 30 points per match. They were led in scoring by Teresa Abrahamson, guard, followed by Anna Maire Moreno, a fine outside shooter with great potential.

With the teamwork of forward Pretti, centers Ann Gumina and Karen Fisher, and guard Karen Duffy, they built up good leads in other games.

Other players are Joanne McCarthy, Alicia Smith, Debbie Fitzpatrick, Maureen Leahy, Denise Brignoli and Maria Bernardo.

SSF Nine Beats Irish

South San Francisco High's baseball team defeated Sacred Heart of the West Catholic Athletic League 6-2 Friday at Orange Park to capture fifth place in the SSF Invitational.

St. Ignatius of the WCAL blanked Northgate 3-0 in a preliminary to take seventh place.

South City was bombarded by two early Sacred Heart home runs. However, Warrior ace Jim Selvitella allowed only one hit thereafter and SSF struck for five runs in the fourth to decide matters.

Sean Burns produced a run-scoring single, Dave Stalker smashed a double for two RBIs, and Jose Martinez drove in two more with a base hit.

The Warriors added their final run in the sixth on Paul Nuti's RBI single. Selvitella struck out six and walked one.

El Camino and San Carlos met recently at Orange Park in the title game.

Ted Maynard's pinch single in the ninth that drove in Don Peters from third tied the contest at 4-4. West Valley (5-10) then parlayed a single, a walk, a sacrifice, and another single into a pair of tenth-inning runs.

Year 2076—What Will It Be Like?

What will it be in 2076 A.D. Nirvana — or nowhere?

Now the San Francisco Bay Area is considered a good place to live. To reflect on what it will be 100 years from now, San Francisco State University's Continuing Education Department will hold a weekend symposium, "Images of the Future: Bay Area 2076" April 23 and 24.

Keynote speaker, critic and environmentalist Cleveland Amory, is joined by members of the San Francisco State faculty to question: How will Bay Area residents earn their livings in 2076?

Vice President-Provost Donald L. Garrity will provide the welcoming address and on April 24 at 1 p.m., he will participate in a panel discussion, "What Will They Be Doing? Shifting Images of Work, Wealth and Power."

That same afternoon, Dr. Arthur A. Berger, associate professor of social science and author of the current controversial "The TV-Guided American," will discuss "Pop Goes the Image: Manners, Morals and Popular Culture."

This multi-media symposium will employ audience participation, films, slides and lectures to examine likely scenarios for the lives of the future children. Guests are invited to project from the evidence of today the possibilities for tomorrow.

Enrollment fee is $25 for both days and for one unit of Behavioral and Social Science credit. The fee to audit both days is $15.

Each person who registers and pay fees for the total program, whether for credit or audit, may obtain one free ticket for a friend or spouse for Cleveland Amory's lecture "Our Environmental Future" April 23 at 8 p.m. in Knuth Hall of the Creative Arts building on Holloway near 19th Avenue.

You may enroll by calling the school or by writing the Continuing Education Department.

Good morning, good cooks.

Did the Easter bunny leave you a colorful collection of hard-cooked eggs? And lots and lots of jelly beans and chocolate chickens? If so, I know the kids in your family will do their part to solve the candy problem, but what to do with all those eggs?

Deviled eggs are nice, and most everyone likes an egg salad sandwich, but the best way to get a maximum return on hard-cooked eggs would be to slice them into a cream sauce and serve over hot biscuits.

CREAMED EGGS

- 6 hard-cooked eggs
- 2 tbsp butter
- 2 tbsp flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1 tsp salt
- 1/4 tsp pepper

In a medium saucepan, melt the butter and blend in the flour. Add the milk gradually, stirring constantly until boiling point is reached. Reduce heat and cook for three minutes longer; add the salt and pepper and blend.

Slice the hard-cooked eggs into sauce. Blend lightly and serve immediately over hot biscuits. Serves 4.

If you served ham for Easter dinner and have some tasty morsels left (two cups of tasty morsels), you might find this casserole to your liking.

HAM CASSEROLE

- 2 cups diced cooked ham
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 cup uncooked rice
- 1 can (28-ounces) tomatoes
- 1 green pepper, chopped
- 1 can pitted ripe olives (9-ounces)
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 tsp salt
- 1/4 tsp pepper
- 1/2 cup salad oil

In large mixing bowl combine the ham, chopped onion, rice, tomatoes, green pepper, olives, bay leaf, salt, pepper and salad oil. Mix well and turn into a greased 2-quart casserole. Cover and bake at 350-degrees for 1 hour and 15 minutes or until rice is tender. Stir twice during cooking time. Serves 6.

STUDENT AWARDS

Daly City Chamber of Commerce President James Howe, Jr. and Dr. Floyd Gonella flank the winners of the Chamber's recent outstanding student competition. They are Frank de Luna, Westmoor High School; Anna Pedersen, Jefferson High School; Jennifer McNeil, Serramonte High School; and Jorge Marquez, Thornton High School.

Big Walk To Start At Fort

They're calling it "The Big Bay Area Get-together" and in case you're wondering just exactly who it is who is getting together, it seems to be a large segment of the Bay Area health and welfare agency population.

The list of participants collected by the sponsoring Volunteer Bureau of San Francisco for the Volunteer Fair at Fort Mason April 24 and 25, already includes over 30 United Way agencies — many of whom also figure into the "Big Bay Area Walk" April 24.

Saturday's nature hike through the co-sponsoring Golden Gate Recreation Area (Fort Funston to Fort Mason along the Great Highway and back) will be more than just a stroll. Each hiker is signing up sponsors for the 20-mile trek, proceeds to go to the walker's favorite charity.

The Big Walk is just the beginning, however. Continuous entertainment is scheduled at Fort Mason during the weekend tours.

Informational booths are being prepared by a large number of health and social welfare agencies, several of them supported by United Way. Four major forums will be held Saturday and Sunday in Building 310 at Fort Mason, with areas of discussion being children and youth, health, social needs and environment.

United Way agencies providing entertainment include the Performing Arts Workshop, San Francisco Jewish Community Center, Israeli Folk Dancers, YWCA dance groups, the Chamber Chorus of the San Francisco Community Chorus, Community Music Center.

Pacifica Cable TV Picture Bleak

Pacifica has all but given up on its cable television operators. Tele-Communications, Inc.

The City Council last week denied a request by the company for a 52-day extension to complete construction of a new cable system.

The company has informed the council that it will be unable to meet a May 1 deadline agreed upon last year.

TCI was to meet that deadline if it was to obtain the money from a September rate increase being held in escrow.

The council and the public in recent months have been extremely critical of TCI and its operation.

They have complained that the cable company doesn't answer its phones, doesn't correct reception problems when complaints are registered and has an inadequate billing system.

Council members have suggested that perhaps it's time the city take over the cable station.

"TCI is absolutely out of control," said City Manager Don Weidner. "It's a very sick organization that is about to go berserk."

The staff, he said, is at wits end trying to make the system work.

It's unfortunate, he said, because the city could be on the verge of having a better system if the company's promises were true.

With the new system little more than half completed, reception in these parts of the city where the 20 station cable has been installed still is not perfect, Weidner said.

He said it is time to sit down with TCI representatives to solve the problems. If there are no solutions, TCI should return the rate increase money in escrow or find someone else to do the job.

The escrow account now holds about $94,765 in subscriber money.

TCI management has blamed the delay on a six-week strike by its cable employees from Jan. 16 through March 8.

Regional Manager Gene Cabral said the company is requesting the total 52 days for an extension. The system could be completed before then, he said.

During the strike, there was vandalism at the main cable in four different locations and it took several weeks to repair the cable, he said.

District Manager Ron Sutherland said there were many things which contributed to the installation delay.

"We still are striving to meet the May 1 deadline," he said. "To be safe, we are asking for the 52-day extension."

The council, however, was further frustrated because TCI District Engineer Richard Rexroot told the council Feb. 6 that the strike would not delay the project and the new cables would be completed on time. Other TCI personnel had made the same assurances.

Rexroot said Monday he was unaware on Feb. 6 that the cable had been vandalized. The council demanded specifics, including where the cable was vandalized and on what days.

Rexroot pinpointed only two locations — Alta Loma street and Higate and Portola drives in Daly City leading to Pacifica.

Councilman Stan Farber asked for "tangible proof" that the vandalism had occurred.

Sutherland said he could present invoices for the new cable that had to be purchased.

Farber said that didn't convince him.

Sutherland admitted that reception problems still exist where the 20-station cable system has been installed.

However, TCI will work those out in time, he said.

As it has in the past several months, the council listened to a parade of cable subscribers complaining of the service.

Marvin Schneider said the subscribers continue to be billed in advance of service although TCI had promised a better billing system.

He also said that when television reception is out or inoperable during prime television time, the subscriber should get back more than 22 cents.

"We lost a lot of prime time during this building program," he said.

Councilmen Farber and Mark Savage agreed to meet with the TCI representatives the weekend of April 17 or 24.

Another special meeting will be held May 1 to decide if TCI has made progress or if the council should deny TCI a rate increase and take further action against the company.

The council also formally placed TCI on notice that if the contract deadline is not met, escrow money will be returned to subscribers.

The city manager said the council could then consider several options, ranging from imposing a penalty on TCI for every day beyond May 1 that it takes to complete the system, to revoking the contract entirely.

DC Clean-Up Week Slated

The week of April 24 through May 2 has been designated "Clean-Up Week" by the City of Daly City and the Scavenger Company in Daly City. The refuse disposal area will be open from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily for the free use of all residents.

The refuse area is located on the coast near Mussel Rock, at the southern-most end of Skyline Drive.

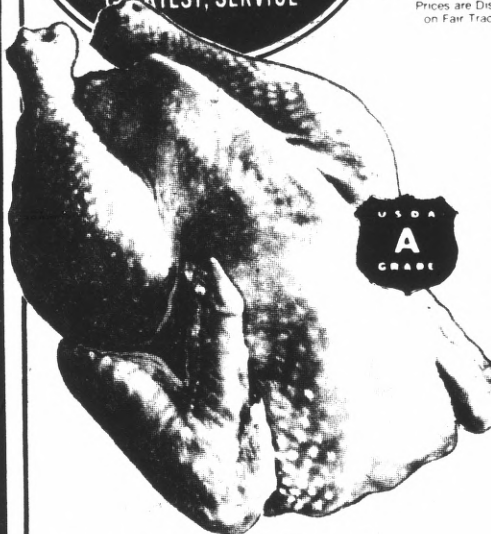

The Daly City Scavenger Company asks that residents dump the trash in the designated area. An attendant will be on duty to direct the residents to the proper site. Proof of residency will be required.

The past few years were the biggest years yet for the annual campaign aimed at eliminating fire hazards in and around homes and for generally sprucing up the city.

Vehicles of all shapes and sizes pulled into the oceanside dumping ground depositing tons of refuse.

Sponsors of the event, in addition to the Scavengers, are the Chamber of Commerce and the Fire Department, with the backing of local merchants and homeowner associations.

Pete, Leo Shunned By COPE

Incumbent Congressman Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo, and Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-Menlo Park, failed to gain the endorsement of the Committee on Political Education (COPE), the political arm of the AFL-CIO California Labor Federation in San Francisco.

The failure to endorse Ryan was one of the few surprise moves at the convention and came after public workers unions blocked a bid by trade union leaders to endorse him.

Ryan, unopposed in the Democratic primary, has taken a strong public posture against collective bargaining by public employees and has been a critic of the municipal workers strike in San Francisco.

He will have another chance at endorsement before the November general election, because COPE will hold another endorsing convention in the fall.

Candlelight Tea Planned

The United Presbyterian Women of the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church in Daly City are planning a mother-daughter candlelight tea for 7:30 p.m. May 4. It will be in the church social hall.

A program with a bi-centennial emphasis is planned with a tableau called "Women of Faith." A square dancing presentation emphasizing its history, is also planned. A $1 donation is asked.

Sewer Plant Worker: She Shatters the Image

By JANET PARKER
When Pat Taffer dons a yellow hard-hat, she shatters every image of the Ed Norton-type sewage plant worker.

Unlike the character of the old "Honeymooners" television series, she's articulate, intelligent and attractive.

She also is bursting the sex barrier of a traditionally all-male field. Ms. Taffer coordinates training programs and instructs orientation sessions for wastewater treatment plant operators. "There's been nothing as beautiful as being a woman in a predominantly male field," Ms. Taffer, 38, said.

She presently is employed by Resources Engineering and Management, a private firm, in South San Francisco.

Being a woman in a world of men certainly hasn't hindered her progress.

Ms. Taffer recently became the first woman to receive the national Water Pollution Control Federation's Arthur Sidney Bedell award out of 506 recipients from throughout the world since 1949.

The award is given for outstanding service in the sewage and wastewater treatment works field.

It's not the only "first" on Ms. Taffer's list of achievements.

She's the first woman member of the American Water Works Association, the Water Pollution Control Federation and the California Water Pollution Control Association.

She was also one of the first women to receive the Department of Navy Appreciation award. She trained Vietnam veterans for employment in the sewage treatment field.

In past years, she has worked with state and city governments helping to develop training programs in what are usually thought of as not so glamorous fields — pest control, solid waste management and others.

She was employed for eight years by the Environmental Protection Agency and was director of the EPA's Environmental Placement Services headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Taffer is known throughout the state as a leader in her field. And that's quite an accomplishment since she's also the only woman in the state training sewage treatment workers.

What's it like to supervise so many male workers in a field women never before dreamed of entering?

"Anyone in this position who says they are being discriminated against has to be out of their minds."

the tall, slender Redwood Shores resident said.

A professional woman in a man's world has many advantages over her male counterparts, she said. She can gain access to offices easier and can attract more attention when it's advantageous to her job.

And, the men she meets and works with in her line of work seldom forget her, she said.

"If you walk into a room with 199 men and you're the only woman, they have to notice you," she said.

It is her responsibility to hold orientation meetings for prospective sewage plant employees. She said she tells them of "the world of sewage — what it is, what their attitudes are towards it and what their part in it will be."

When she calls back a fellow professional or treatment plant official two months later, they remember her and are eager to talk.

Once in a while, Ms. Taffer noted, she finds herself the subject of a joke or two. But, as the only woman on the state and national associations' boards of directors, she really doesn't mind when the men ask her to serve the coffee.

The key to success for a woman professional surrounded by men is attitude, she said.

"I am a firm believer that if a woman wants to do a job, it may take her a little longer to prove herself, but when she does, she will get equal opportunity," Ms. Taffer said.

A woman's attitude toward her job can open doors for her that a man might find closed.

Women who try to fight the system, file claims of discrimination and blow off steam are usually only hurting their own chances, she said.

"I hear all the time from other women that I am lucky, and they want to know how I did it," she said. "The whole key is attitude."

If she isn't a success, she said, it won't be because no one gave her a chance. It will be because she didn't try hard enough.

Ms. Taffer admits that if she were a man with a college education, she may have gone even higher in her field. She is a high school graduate and learned about wastewater treatment through short courses at Drake University and Orange Coast College.

"But I'm happy and I enjoy where I am," she said. "I set a goal eight years ago to be able to work in a training position with a good income."

Her goal has been met. She and her two children (she is divorced) live in an $80,000 Redwood Shores home and their life is comfortable. Her job, which involves travel throughout the western states, is as much her recreation as it is her livelihood, she said.

With the requirement of affirmative action, more women are entering lower levels of sewage treatment work, she said. Yet, only 50 of the 600 wastewater plant operators in the state are female. There are none in San Mateo County, although there is one woman in the Palo Alto plant, one of her former trainees.

Ms. Taffer said she's not out to win a cause or prove a point. She's just fulfilling her goal.

If a woman is a good worker and a benefit to her company, no employer is going to complain about her work, she said. Good workers — regardless of their sex — bring financial success to a company.

"I think a woman can utilize what the good Lord has given her — long eye lashes, charm and dimples if need be — to get where she wants to go," Ms. Taffer said.

Planning Not Only Job on Line in South SF

An urgent plea that the city planner be retained in South San Francisco's 1976-77 budget was made by the Planning Commission last Wednesday night.

Commissioners have been up in arms since they learned two months ago that the city planner will be cut from the budget.

They met with the City Council to find out why the planner was being eliminated and if the council would reconsider.

At the same time, however, City Manager Ed Alario warned that City Planner David Hale will not be the only employee whose job will be terminated this year.

Staff also has given notice to Director of Finance Stan Bara and Alario said it "won't be just that position."

"It's going to be extremely difficult for the council because we can not maintain the same level of services we have now," Alario said. Preliminary budget requests by all departments are $2.68 million more than the city's expected revenue for 1976-77. Thus, if the city expects to have a balanced budget this year, the City Council must decide what to cut from its budget. Hale, who was informed by letter in February that his job will no longer exist as of July 1, sat silently in the audience while the commission and a few persons in the audience supported the need for a planner.

The commission primarily wanted to know how the planning department will function without a leader, who will serve as right-hand-man to the commission and how the city will compile full reports on major projects with the remaining staff.

Commissioner Robert Teglia said many elements of the general plan need to be updated. Some day, she said, the city will end up in court because of that plan. A city planner is needed to carry out that job.

She also asked who will handle such major projects as commercial development in the Gellert Drive area, the city's ongoing urban core study and revitalization of the downtown business area.

"Some administrative aide doesn't have the ability to do that," she said.

Commissioner Joe Mathewson noted it was disturbing for the commission to read about the elimination of the planner's job in the newspaper.

"The city planner, to a layman, is like the pilot of a ship," said Chairman Homer Hale. "We need someone with his expertise to guide us and advise us."

The council has said that they left it up to the city manager to decide what positions would be cut from the budget.

Mayor Leo Padreddi, however, said that since cuts will have to be made, he prefers they be made from the top levels of personnel and "work down."

To eliminate one top position is equivalent to eliminating four persons at lower levels in terms of salary and community impact, he said. Councilman Terry Mirri asked if the employees who will remain in the Planning Department are aware their workload will increase. He also wanted assurance those individuals also would not be expecting salary increases as a result.

"If they wish to continue working in South San Francisco, they are going to accept this," City Manager Alario said. There will be no recommendation that higher salaries be provided, he said.

Alario added that throughout the state, most positions being eliminated by cities are in planning. Most of the business in the South San Francisco office is routine and can be handled by the remaining assistant city planner and zoning administrator, he said.

San Bruno Being Sued Over Massage Ordinance

The attorney for an East Bay man arrested last month by San Bruno Police for allegedly operating a massage parlor without a permit has filed suit in San Mateo County Superior Court claiming the city's massage parlor ordinance is invalid.

Sandra Smith of Albany, legal counsel for Paul Martin Burns, is asking that the court grant her request for a temporary restraining order and a preliminary injunction to prohibit the city from enforcing its ordinance.

A show-cause hearing as to why the city should not be enjoined from enforcing its ordinance will be held Thursday in Superior Court in Redwood City.

On March 23, San Bruno police raided Linda's Cosmetic Studio, 187 El Camino Real, and issued a misdemeanor citation to Burns, the studio owner, for operating a massage parlor without a permit.

A Cupertino woman,

Betty Budros, who was an employee at the studio, was cited by police for allegedly massaging without a license.

According to Police Lt. Hugh Fraser, officers believed the cosmetic studio did not provide the sales and service of cosmetics as was indicated on the business license application but was instead a massage parlor.

To prove it, Det. Rick Watson was asked to visit the premises posing as a man employed as a computer operator at San Francisco Airport. He was to ask the woman employed at the studio for a skin conditioning and "whatever further service she would perform."

Watson was equipped with a wireless microphone before he entered the studio. The recording revealed that Watson asked for a massage and received one for $25.

Miss Smith is arguing that the city ordinance regulating the operation of massage parlors is "invalid and unenforceable... because it defines massage so broadly as to encompass most forms of physical contact between employee and customer, and is thus overly broad, vague and uncertain in violation of the due process clause of the 14th Amendment of the Constitution."

The city code defines a massage as "any method of treating the external parts of the human body by bathing, rubbing, pressing, stroking, kneading, tapping, pounding, vibrating, or stimulating with the hands or any instrument."

Miss Smith also is arguing that the ordinance is invalid "because it attempts to regulate sexual conduct, an area which has been pre-empted by state law."

Her legal brief states, "The fact that the defendant city is attempting to apply its invalid ordinance to cosmetic distribution is indicative of defendant's intent to prevent illicit sexual conduct by rigorously regulating all physical contact between employee and customers."

"Since the employees of Linda's Cosmetic Studio do not purport to provide massages and do not in fact provide massages, it should be a matter of indifference to the defendant whether or not said employees are qualified to provide massages."

Miss Smith advised the court that Burns estimates he is losing $300 for every day he is forced to keep the cosmetic studio closed.

SSF High '56 Reunion

Contact with all graduates of the class of 1956 of South San Francisco High School is being sought by the Twentieth Reunion Committee. The reunion will be Sept. 11 at Brentwood Lodge.

Those knowing of the whereabouts of any 1956 graduate may call or write Margie Agliolo Gonzales at 1029 Annapolis Drive, San Mateo, a committee spokesman said.

SSF License Fees Said Likely to Double

New business license fees being considered in South San Francisco will at least double the fees now being paid by 1,400 merchants and industries.

City Manager Ed Alario said he recently met with some business community leaders for a preliminary discussion of a new annual fee structure.

"We have the most antiquated fee system," Alario said.

If implemented on Jan. 1, 1977, it will mark the first time the business license fees have been increased since the city ordinance was adopted in 1947.

Alario said the staff and businessmen are discussing a license fee based on the number of persons employed in each office, store or factory.

The city would collect $150 for each employee, with a minimum fee of $50 and a maximum of $750.

Few businesses, however, have 500 employees, even in the Industrial Park, American Bridge, listed by the Chamber of Commerce as the largest manufacturing firm in the city, has 580 employees. The second largest firm, Fuller O'Brien, has 330.

Until this year, merchants have paid a flat fee of $25 a year. Manufacturing industries have paid on the basis of the number of employees, with a minimum of $25 and maximum of $150.

Alario said the new fees will allow the city to increase its business license revenue but still be fair to small merchants, such as corner grocery store owners.

"Everyone will end up with at least double their present fee," Alario said.

He noted, however, that the proposed increase for most of the downtown business district merchants will be much smaller in proportion to large industries that have paid up to $150 for 30 years.

Director of Finance Stan Bara said the annual revenue will increase from about $88,000 to $200,000 a year with the new fees.

Bara termed the current fees "archaic."

A commercial business and industrial committee will be formed, Bara said, to work with city staff in establishing the new business license fees.

After an ordinance is drafted, it is to be presented to the City Council in a study session sometime in June or July.

The meeting Wednesday was the first-gathering of city staff and business community leaders to discuss the need for restructuring fees.

The Peninsula Manufacturers Association was among those represented at the meeting. Executive Director Bill Hern said PMA realizes there are some inequities in the 30-year-old ordinance.

"We don't object to a minimum increase in license fees," Hern said. What was sensible in 1947, he added, has nothing to do with business in 1976.

He said he would be meeting with representatives of the 70 PMA members in South San Francisco April 17.

One of the items they were to discuss was the maximum fee of $750 to be charged the largest industries — a $600 increase over the old fee.

The Downtown Merchants Association, representing the city's central business district, was not involved in Wednesday's meeting and president Joe Roussou was not available for comment.

Alario said the staff will hold more meetings with the business community.

Economic Development Building Permit Delayed

The validity of a use permit pending before the South San Francisco City Council for a state Department of Economic Development building has been questioned by a former assistant city planner.

Surindra Amin, who previously told the City Council it had neglected to hold a public hearing on the use permit, now has pointed out another potential problem.

Amin said the negative declaration exempting the project from environmental impact reports was filed by the city planner nine days before the Planning Commission hearing — one day short of city ordinance requirements.

The negative declaration requirements were not met," Amin told the City Council.

The City Council was scheduled to hold a public hearing on the use permit but postponed the hearing until the city attorney could determine if regulations had been violated.

The Department of Economic Development building is planned for South Spruce Avenue near the Myrtle Avenue extension site by Richard Bocci of Daly City.

City Atty. John Noonan said he has not decided if the negative declaration filing regulation were violated.

If he decides that they were, the project would have to be sent back to the Planning Commission.

However, he said the negative declaration was submitted to the city clerk on Friday, Nov. 14 and officially processed Monday, Nov. 17.

The Planning Commission meeting was held nine days later, Nov. 25.

Noonan said that since the declaration was submitted in the appropriate time period although it was not processed, the action may be legal.

"I haven't made a definite decision yet," Noonan said.

There are other problems for the Economic Development building application. The City Council heard several complaints that parking will be inadequate.

Zoning administrator Bill Costanzo said the applicant plans 47 parking spaces — more than double that required by city ordinance.

But Councilman William Borba said that, despite the parking requirements, this kind of building will be used by many more people in addition to employees.

"If we adopt this without more parking facilities, we are going to have a problem," Borba said.

City Planner David Hale said he would re-evaluate plans for parking with the state Department of Economic Development.

SSF Commissions Announce Openings

Several positions on South San Francisco commissions and boards will be filled soon by the City Council.

Any resident who would like to serve on one of the local government groups should obtain an application from the city clerk's office in City Hall.

The City Council recently decided that it would seek applications for all boards and commission positions which expire this year, whether or not the person presently holding the position wants to be reappointed.

The council also has limited positions to two terms.

Included are three positions on the Personnel Board, one on the Parking Place Commission, five on the Parks and Recreation Commission and one on the Housing Authority.

Mergers Are Recommended

The Task Force on County Government Operations soon will be recommending grouping under a single county department various commissions and groups which receive financing primarily from local sources for people-related services.

In a report to the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, John P. Dern, chairman of the task force, states, "We are looking specifically at the Human Relations Department, the Economic Opportunity Commission, Manpower Planning, Agency on Aging, Affirmative Action and Revenue Sharing.

"Our preliminary studies indicate that grouping these services and programs within one department would achieve very substantial savings, provide for greater accountability, and render better service to those for whom it is intended.

"The present scatter approach in the use of federal monies allocated to the county needs to be evaluated in terms of benefit received for dollars expended.

"Any program under the aegis of the county, whether it uses federal or local tax dollars, needs to be monitored constantly for the protection of both the taxpayer and the consumer. We believe our ultimate recommendations will achieve this purpose.

Dern also noted in his report that the task force believes the scope of health care facilities in the county is much larger than that of Chocho Community Hospital and decentralized health care alone.

The group feels, Dern reported, that any decision concerning a future health care program must include an evaluation of the uses of Canyon Hospital, Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center, the Department of Health and Welfare offices at two locations in San Mateo, the Fair Oaks and Drew health clinics, as well as Chocho Hospital.

Dern said, "The functions which must be included within this evaluation encompass mental health, primary and secondary health care, coroner and public administrator work and the administrative needs of all these programs.

"It would be shortsighted to make decisions on a piecemeal basis without considering how each of these parts fits into the whole. Our studies and interviews indicate that an overall plan is necessary in order to achieve the greatest efficiency.

Hypertension Funds Asked

An application to the State Department of Health for a $27,639 grant to finance a hypertension detection and treatment program for senior citizens in San Mateo County was approved this week by the Board of Supervisors.

He said the program will provide such services for 4,250 persons during the period between July 1, 1976, and June 30, 1977.

Health and Welfare Dr. George Pickett, who recommended the action, said the services to be provided

How did Ford Pinto get to be the best-selling wagon in the world? It was easy.

57.2 cu. ft. load space

Easy to load.

EPA estimates
31 mpg hwy. 20 mpg city.

31 ft.

'3,365'

Easy on gas.

Easy to handle.

Easy to buy.

Easy to load

The easy-to-open liftgate at the rear is counter balanced. So with a mere touch of the hand, it floats up and opens to over 57 cu. ft. of cargo space. The low flat floor means easy loading, no high lifting.

Easy to handle

Pinto's precise rack-and-pinion steering makes it easy to steer. Its turning circle is smaller than VW Rabbit, so Pinto's easy to park in the tightest spots.

Easy to buy

Pinto's price includes dual hydraulic brake system with front disc brakes, floor-mounted 4-speed manual transmission, solid state ignition, high-mileage 2.3 liter OHC engine, Ford Lariat Design Safety Features, and more. Add it up. You'll see why Pinto's the world's best-selling wagon.
